READING Lesson Plan → Combining Prefixes and Roots — Flip-A-Chip

Organizing Topic

Word Analysis and Vocabulary Acquisition

Related Standard(s) of Learning 6.3, 7.4, 8.4

Objective(s)

- The student will use combined prefixes and roots.
- The student will embed words in meaningful context.
- The student will use the dictionary.

Materials needed

- Flip-A-Chip sample packet(s)
- Dictionaries
- Plastic bags
- File cards
- Blank chips and markers
- Lists of prefixes and roots

Lesson procedure

1. Prepare a sample Flip-A-Chip packet containing two chips — one chip with a different prefix written on each side (e.g., re or pro) and the other chip with a different root on each side (e.g., ject or duce). These prefixes and roots must combine to make four words.
2. Demonstrate how to flip the chips and create the four words.
3. Model how to place all four words into meaningful context, and write the example on a file card. Then, insert this card into the bag with the chips.
4. Display or distribute a list of prefixes and a list of roots for students to use while creating Flip-A-Chip packets of their own.
5. Instruct students to work with partners to create packets and the file cards to accompany them. Have them check the dictionary for spelling and usage.
6. Encourage students to share the Flip-A-Chip packets with classmates and to continue to use the dictionary.

My first idea for a science
1) _____ was to 2) _____
something to help me 3) _____
my waistline, but I must now
4) _____ that idea as unworkable.

1) project, 2) produce, 3) reduce, 4) reject

READING Lesson Plan → Combining Suffixes and Roots — Flip-A-Chip

Organizing Topic

Word Analysis and Vocabulary Acquisition

Related Standard(s) of Learning 6.3, 7.4, 8.4

Objective(s)

- The student will use combined suffixes and roots.
- The student will embed words in meaningful context.
- The student will use the dictionary.

Materials needed

- Flip-A-Chip sample packet(s)
- Dictionaries
- Plastic bags
- File cards
- Blank chips and markers
- Lists of suffixes and roots

Lesson procedure

1. Prepare a sample Flip-A-Chip packet containing two chips — one chip with a different suffix written on each side (e.g., less or ful) and the other chip with a different root on each side (e.g., harm or care.) These suffixes and roots must combine to make four words.
2. Demonstrate how to flip the chips and create the four words.
3. Model how to place all four words into meaningful context, and write the example on a file card. Then, insert this card into the bag with the chips.
4. Display or distribute a list of suffixes and a list of roots for students to use while creating Flip-A-Chip packets of their own.
5. Instruct students to work with partners to create packets and the file cards to accompany them. Have them check the dictionary for spelling and usage.
6. Encourage students to share the Flip-A-Chip packets with classmates and to continue to use the dictionary.

If you are 1) _____ when you wash dishes you might cause 2) _____ bacteria to stay on the glassware. Also be 3) _____ when you put the silverware away so that knives are placed into their racks is a 4) _____ fashion.

1) careless, 2) harmful, 3) careful, 4) harmless

READING Lesson Plan → Expanding Vocabulary through Root Trees

Organizing Topic

Word Analysis and Vocabulary Acquisition

Related Standard(s) of Learning 6.3a, 7.4a

Objective(s)

- The student will use root trees and word families to expand vocabulary and develop independence with vocabulary acquisition.

Materials needed

- Overhead transparencies of Wordsalive root tree, found at http://www.pen.k12.va.us/VDOE/Instruction/Reading/wordsalive_voc_acq.html (see next page)
- Washable transparency pens
- Damp towels
- A list of roots appropriate to the lesson (preferably taken from the text about to be read)
- Dictionaries

Lesson procedure

1. Select approximately eight Greek or Latin roots, appropriate to the grade level and the upcoming lesson.
2. Model writing a root in the bottom of the tree and words that are derived from that root in the leaves of the tree.
3. Have groups of three or four students collaborate on root trees, using dictionaries for support. Have them look up words that are new and/or unfamiliar in order to discover the Greek or Latin roots.
4. Have the students share their root trees on the overhead projector.
5. Repeat the lesson at regular intervals.

Build your own family of words.

READING Lesson Plan → Acquiring Vocabulary through Word Mapping

Organizing Topic

Word Analysis and Vocabulary Acquisition

Related Standard(s) of Learning 6.3, 7.4, 8.4

Objective(s)

- The student will use word mapping to expand vocabulary and develop independence with vocabulary acquisition.

Materials needed

- Overhead transparencies of Wordsalive map, found at http://www.pen.k12.va.us/VDOE/Instruction/Reading/wordsalive_voc_acq.html
- Washable transparency pens
- Damp towels
- Copies of a selected text
- A list of words from the text
- Dictionaries

Lesson procedure

1. Select approximately eight words from the selected text, and display and/or distribute the list. The words should be at or just slightly above the instructional level of the students.
2. Model the use of the word map with one of the words from the list. On the map, record the word, the context copied from the text, a guessed definition, a dictionary definition, a paraphrased definition, a synonym or example, an antonym or non-example, etymological information, morphological information, and a picture and with caption.
3. Have groups of three or four students map one word, using transparencies of the word map and washable pens.
4. Have the groups take turns introducing their word to the class.
5. Have each student map a word individually after the text has been read.

READING Lesson Plan → Analyzing Characters through Biopoems

Organizing Topic

Comprehending Narrative and Poetic Text

Related Standard(s) of Learning 6.4, 7.5, 8.5

Objective(s)

- The student will read and respond to a biography.
- The student will write poetry.

Materials needed

- Biographic text that students have already read
- Transparency and handouts of the biopoem
- Overhead projector

Lesson procedure

1. Distribute and display the biopoem formula (see below). Model the use of the biopoem, either with a famous person or yourself.
2. If appropriate, have each student write a biopoem about himself/herself. These might be shared, if time permits.
3. Ask students to draft biopoems about the subjects of biographies they have finished reading.
4. Have the students share their draft with a partner for revision and editing.
5. Biopoems might be read aloud and/or posted in the classroom. They might also be used for responding to strong, fictional characters encountered in the students' readings.

Biopoem Formula

- Line 1: first name
- Line 2: four traits that describe the character (usually adjectives)
- Line 3: relative of (“brother of...,” “daughter of...,”)
- Line 4: lover of (three things or people)
- Line 5: who feels (three items or phrases)
- Line 6: who needs (three phrases)
- Line 7: who fears (three items)
- Line 8: who gives (three items or ideas)
- Line 9: who would like to see (three items for the future)
- Line 10: resident of (city, state, and/or country)
- Line 11: last name

READING Lesson Plan → Analyzing Characters with Characterization Charts

Organizing Topic

Comprehending Narrative and Poetic Text

Related Standard(s) of Learning 6.4, 7.5, 8.5

Objective(s)

- The student will recognize character traits.
- The student will recognize character changes.

Materials needed

- A story with a strong character(s)
- Characterization charts in handout and transparency form
- Overhead projector

Lesson procedure

1. Select from the student anthology a story that contains a strong character(s).
2. Introduce the characterization chart (see below), and record the story's title on the chart.
3. Skim the story for the name of the protagonist, and record it on the chart. Other characters will be recorded on charts of their own.
4. Begin reading the story aloud, and pause to indicate elements on the chart as they appear in the story.
5. After reading a few paragraphs and recording a few elements on the chart, ask the students to read the rest of the story silently or with partners and continue recording elements on the chart.
6. Collaborate with the students to complete the transparency chart, using the findings of the class.
7. On the back of the chart, write a character description and/or tell how the plot caused changes in the character. Illustrations are optional but suggested.
8. This lesson might be repeated with a biography or autobiography.

Characterization Chart
Name of the character: _____ / Nickname, if appropriate _____
Title of story
Introduction
Problem(s)
Actions taken to solve problem(s)
Physical description
How he/she talks

Internal conversation or thoughts
Changes as a result of the plot

READING Lesson Plan → Making and Modifying Story Predictions

Organizing Topic

Comprehending Narrative and Poetic Text

Related Standard(s) of Learning 6.4, 7.5, 8.5

Objective(s)

- The student will predict.
- The student will confirm, reject, and/or modify predictions.

Materials needed

- A short, predictable story from the students' anthology.

Lesson procedure

1. Announce the title and author of the story. Ask or tell students about the author, and instruct the students to examine the artwork.
2. Ask the students to predict, either orally or in writing, what they think the story will be about based on the title, what they know of the author, and the artwork.
3. Read aloud a portion of the text, or assign students to read it silently. Pause to consider the predictions made prior to reading, and confirm, reject, or modify predictions as needed.
4. Have the students predict again before reading another portion. As the reading continues, pause again to consider and then confirm, reject, or modify predictions.
5. Continue the process until the story is finished.
6. Repeat the process regularly with increasingly less predictable material.

READING Lesson Plan → Analyzing a Literature Genre

Organizing Topic

Comprehending Narrative and Poetic Text

Related Standard(s) of Learning 6.4, 7.5, 8.5

Objective(s)

- The student will read a variety of examples of the same genre.
- The student will analyze the genre.

Materials needed

- A number of literature selections from the same genre, e.g., science fiction or historical fiction
- Genre Analysis Charts (see next page)

Lesson procedure

1. Read aloud a short example of the genre.
2. Prepare an analysis chart showing the characteristics of the genre across the top row and the titles of the selections in the left column.
3. Give a brief Book Talk about the other selections.
4. Have the students choose an example to read in a small group. Assign students to groups based on the students' reading abilities and the reading level and length of the selections, if appropriate.
5. Have the groups of students read their selection and look for the elements of the genre while reading.
6. Have the class chart the elements of the genre on the analysis chart.

Genre Analysis Charts

Genre Analysis Chart: Historic Fiction
Title	Time of change or conflict	Real places and maps included	Fictional protagonist(s)	Historic characters and events	Internal and external conflicts	Evidence of research
My Brother Sam is Dead

Genre Analysis Chart: Science Fiction
Title	Futuristic setting	Societal problems	Insights into human nature	Science important to plot	Technology	Evidence of extrapolation
The Fun They Had

Genre Analysis Chart: Myth
Title	Ancient setting	Humans interacting with gods/goddesses	Supernatural powers in gods/goddesses	Transformation	Similarities among different cultures	Explanation of natural phenomenon
Persephone

Genre Analysis Chart: Fantasy
Title	Unrealistic setting	Protagonist with extraordinary powers	Mentors and allies	Evil antagonists	Journeys or quests	Symbolism /Personification	Tests and a supreme ordeal	Supernatural beings and/or events
The Lion, the Witch, and the Wardrobe

READING Lesson Plan → Recognizing Imagery

Organizing Topic

Comprehending Narrative and Poetic Text

Related Standard(s) of Learning

6.4, 7.5, 8.5

Objective(s)

- The student will recognize imagery.

Materials needed

- A poem from the student anthology
- Sensory Imagery Chart in handout and transparency form
- Overhead projector

Lesson procedure

1. Select a poem that contains a variety of visual, auditory, tactile, and perhaps other forms of imagery.
2. Introduce the chart with examples from familiar poems, and distribute charts to the students.

Imagery Chart
Poem: _____ Poet: _____
Visual (seeing) “To watch the woods fill up with snow.”	Auditory (hearing) “From the jingling and the tinkling of the bells.”
Tactile/Kinesthetic (touching/moving) “To fling my arms wide”	Olfactory/Gustatory (smelling/tasting) “sipping a cup of chamomile tea.”

3. Read the poem aloud. Then, have the students read the poem in several different ways, e.g., choral, echo, by rows, by tables, by gender.
4. Have the students record on the chart the imagery they notice while you read the poem aloud again.
5. Collaborate with the students to record on the transparency a synthesis of the imagery found by each student.
6. On the back of their own charts, have the students describe how the imagery combines to set a mood or give meaning to the poem. Illustrations might be added, if appropriate.
7. Repeat with lesson with a variety of poems.

READING Lesson Plan → Making Inferences with It Says...I Say...

Organizing Topic

Comprehending Narrative and Poetic Text

Related Standard(s) of Learning 6.4, 7.5, 8.5

Objective(s)

- The student will make inferences.

Materials needed

- A text from the student anthology
- It says...I say... chart
- Overhead projector and transparency markers
- Transparency wipes

Lesson procedure

1. Select a text that offers opportunities for students to make inferences.
2. Introduce the chart with an example from the text.

It says...	I say...	Inference
“Some say the world will end in fire,”	Severe droughts often allow huge fires to burn out of control.	Perhaps a widespread, severe drought will cause the world to end.

3. Read the text aloud. Then, reread the text with the students in several different ways, such as choral, echo, by rows, by tables, by gender, etc.
4. Have students find other examples in the text to add to the chart (It says...), have them activate background knowledge (I say...), and have them combine that knowledge with the text to make an inference.
5. The lesson should be repeated often with both prose and poetry.

READING Lesson Plan → Understanding Novels with Open House — To Discover...

Organizing Topic Comprehending Narrative and Poetic Text

Related Standard(s) of Learning 6.4, 7.5, 8.5

Objective(s)

- The student will read and comprehend the beginning of a novel.
- The student will predict.

Materials needed

- A class set of an age-appropriate novel on the independent or instructional level of the students
- Photocopied paragraphs from the first chapter of the novel
- Open House — To Discover... handout and transparency (see below)
- Overhead projector

Lesson procedure

1. Choose a novel appropriate for students. Introduce the novel with a very brief Book Talk.
2. Cut photocopied paragraphs from the first chapter into small bits (a few sentences or a paragraph) and distribute them to students, one bit per student. Have the student read their bit and share the information from it with others, who will, in turn, share what they learned from a different bit. Collaboratively students will discover character names and traits, point of view, setting, mood, hints at the plot, and conflict(s).
3. Prior to class discussion, have students record on the “Open House — To Discover...” handout what they have learned from reading and sharing.
4. In a whole-class discussion, have the students share all the information they learned from reading and individual sharing. Record this information on the transparency.
5. Have the students make and record their predictions about the novel.
6. Assign a portion of the novel to be read either independently or in small groups.

READING Lesson Plan → Finding Poetic Features

Organizing Topic Comprehending Narrative and Poetic Text

Related Standard(s) of Learning 6.4, 7.5, 8.5

Objective(s)

- The student will read age-appropriate poetry.
- The student will increase fluency.
- The student will identify poetic devices.
- The student will notice authors' craft.

Materials needed

- Overhead transparencies of poems
- Overhead projector
- A list of poetic features found in the Curriculum Framework
- Washable transparency pens
- Damp towels
- A pointer

Lesson procedure

1. Display a poem on the overhead, and ask students to read it silently.
2. Read the poem aloud to students, and have them follow along, using a pointer to point to words and/or lines to help them follow.
3. Have the students read the poem with you, as a chorus. A student volunteer might use the pointer to help the class follow and stay together.
4. Have the students reread the poem in smaller groups, e.g., by rows, by tables, by gender. Students might take turns being the leader and or the pointer. Some students might volunteer to read aloud a portion or the whole poem as a solo.
5. Have students identify words or phrases that need clarification, and collaborate with them to clarify. Allow them to consult dictionaries, when appropriate.
6. Point out one poetic feature, and ask students to identify where that feature appears elsewhere in the poem. For example, indicate the first simile, and have the students identify all the others, or label the rhyme scheme or meter of the first stanza, and let the students mark the others. Using markers on the overhead transparency can be effective, and students should participate in the markings.
7. On a different day, identify a different poetic feature in another poem, and repeat some features, as necessary or appropriate. As students gain mastery of poetic features, the ask them to identify those features before introducing new ones.
8. Discuss with the students the theme, message, mood, and structure, as appropriate. On occasion, have students write their interpretations, reactions, illustrations, and examples.
9. Have the students reread the poem as a chorus and as volunteer soloists.

READING Lesson Plan → Rehearsing & Reading Scripts with Readers' Theater

Organizing Topic Comprehending Narrative and Poetic Text

Related Standard(s) of Learning 6.4, 7.5, 8.5

Objective(s)

- The student will participate in Readers' Theater.
- The student will increase fluency.
- The student will clarify vocabulary and proper nouns
- The student will predict.
- The student will identify theme.
- The student will identify character traits and/or changes as a result of the plot.

Materials needed

- Story written in play form, either a published play or one adapted by the teacher

Lesson procedure

1. Choose or write a script. Introduce the idea of a Readers' Theater that involves voice-overs for an animated film.
2. Distribute the script, and allow students to preview it and look for roles they would like to read aloud. If there are not enough roles to go around, the students might share roles, one performing in the first part of the play and another in the second part of the play. Another option is to have multiple productions taking place in different parts of the room simultaneously.
3. Assign roles, or allow students to volunteer. Write the role assignments on the board. Although volunteering is preferable, assigning may be needed to ensure that all can participate.
4. Instruct students to find and underline, if using a photocopy, their lines. Have students read their lines silently and then find a partner with whom to rehearse aloud. Circulate to help students articulate any tricky words, such as names. Clarify any recurring names or other tricky words for the entire class.
5. After the rehearsal, help the students predict what the story will be about and identify potential themes and plot lines.
6. For the actual performance of the script, place chairs in a circle, or form several circles, if more than one group are reading simultaneously.
7. When the play is finished, discuss with the students and/or have them write about the theme, characters, and main elements in the plot.

READING Lesson Plan → Summarizing with Somebody...Wanted...But...So...

Organizing Topic

Comprehending Narrative and Poetic Text

Related Standard(s) of Learning

6.4, 7.5, 8.5

Objective(s)

- The student will read a short story
- The student will summarize.

Materials needed

- A short story that is already familiar to all the students
- A short story from the student anthology for students to read
- SWBS Charts in handout and transparency form
- Overhead projector

Lesson procedure

1. Display the SWBS Chart, and review it with students. Display a completed example of the chart based on a story that is familiar to all.

SWBS Chart
Title: _____		Author: _____
Somebody...	Wanted...	But...	So...
Laurie	attention at school	he didn't want his parents to know	he blamed Charles.

2. Assign a short story for the students to read silently or with partners.
3. Have the students use the SWBS Chart to summarize the story.
4. Have the students share their summaries, writing and displaying their responses on a SWBS Chart transparency.
5. Repeat this procedure with other stories.

READING Lesson Plan → Analyzing Stories with a Story Map

Organizing Topic

Comprehending Narrative and Poetic Text

Related Standard(s) of Learning 6.4, 7.5, 8.5

Objective(s)

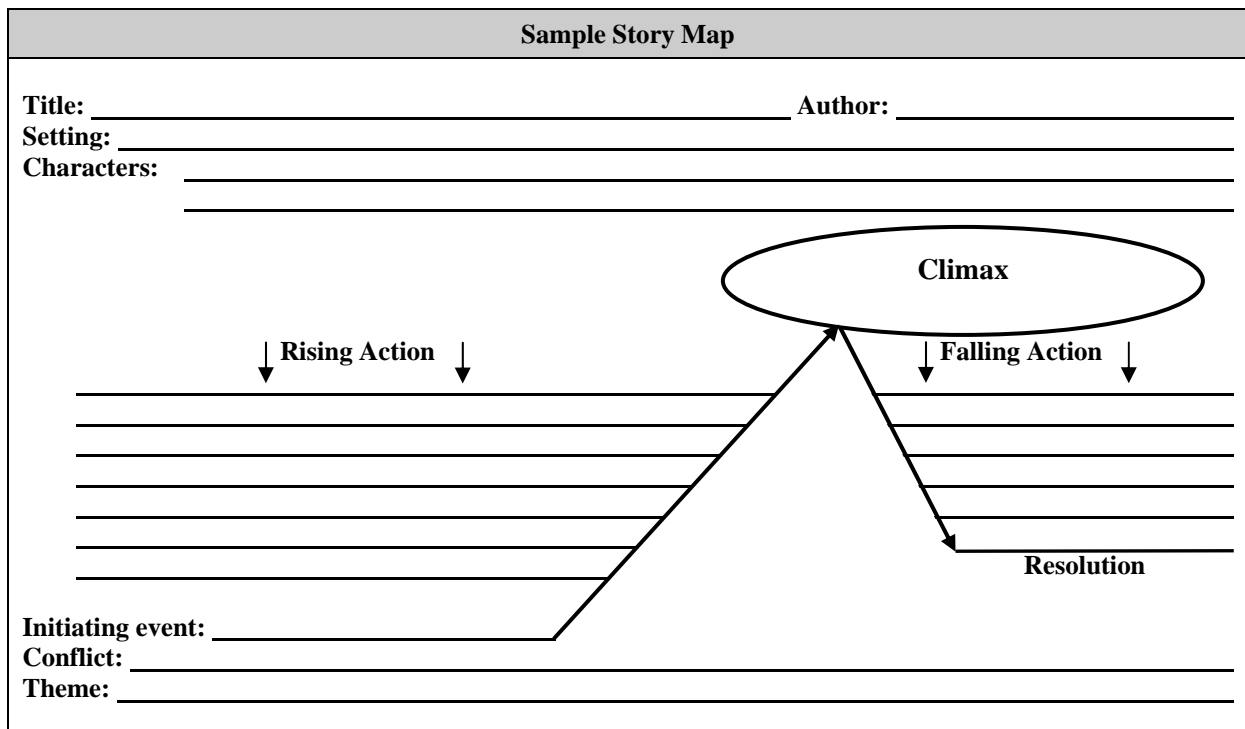

- The student will comprehend and summarize a short story.
- The student will identify the features of a short story.

Materials needed

- Short stories from the student anthology
- Story maps on transparency and in handout form (see below)
- Overhead projector
- Washable marking pens and wipes

Lesson procedure

1. Display a story map on the overhead projector:

Choose a familiar story, and map it as a model, explaining each part of the map: Title, Author, Setting, Initiating event, Protagonist and other characters as appropriate, Events in the rising action, Climax, Event(s) in the falling action, Resolution, Conflict, Theme.

2. Read a story from the student anthology aloud. Students will map as they follow along with the teacher's assistance. For instance, the teacher will pause to allow students to identify the characters, the initiating event, events in the rising action, the climax, and/or the theme of the story.
3. In small groups or pairs students will read and map another story from the anthology. Teacher will circulate, providing assistance as needed.
4. Repeat with many short stories and growing independence.

READING Lesson Plan → Analyzing Poetry with TPCASTT

Organizing Topic Comprehending Narrative and Poetic Text

Related Standard(s) of Learning 6.4, 7.5, 8.5

Objective(s)

- The student will read age-appropriate poetry.
- The student will paraphrase.
- The student will identify poetic devices.
- The student will notice authors' craft.
- The student will interpret poetry.
- The student will identify theme or main idea.

Materials needed

- Poetry from the student anthology
- Transparency of the TPCASTT (Title-Paraphrase-Connotation-Attitude-Shifts-Title-Theme) Chart (see next page)
- Overhead projector
- Handouts of the TPCASTT Chart

Lesson procedure

1. Display a poem on the overhead, and ask students to read it silently.
2. Display the TPCASTT Chart on the overhead, and model the TPCASTT procedure described in the chart:
 - Read the title aloud, and demonstrate making a prediction of its meaning by thinking aloud.
 - Read aloud the entire poem with the students following along. Students might be asked to read along during a second reading.
 - Paraphrase a line, a sentence, or a stanza, as necessary for student comprehension. Points out one or more poetic features, such as imagery (simile, metaphor, personification, alliteration, and onomatopoeia) rhythm, rhyme, point of view, diction, and/or symbolism.
 - Point out the poet's tone and/or mood, looking deeper for connotations in the language and attitudes expressed in the tone or mood.
 - Point to any changes or shifts in feeling, mood, tone, rhyme, or rhythm.
 - Reexamine the title, and explain what it means now that analysis is complete.
 - State a theme, main idea, or lesson learned.
3. Assign another poem from the anthology for the students to analyze using TPCASTT. The students should work in small groups and as they gain independence use the procedure more independently.
4. The teacher should point out the poetic feature(s) to look for, so students do not get frustrated looking for features that are not there.

TPCASTT Chart
T: Title	Predict what you think the title means.
P: Paraphrase	Write in your own words what each line or stanza of the poem says. Don't worry about what it may mean, just what the words say. Be as literal as possible.
C: Connotation	Look for poetic devices, rhyme scheme, symbols, and deeper meaning. Some examples are imagery (simile, metaphor, personification, alliteration, onomatopoeia) rhythm, rhyme, point of view, diction, and symbolism.
A: Attitude	Look for the poet's mood and/or tone.
S: Shifts	Look for changes in feelings, tone, mood, or perhaps rhyme and rhythm.
T: Title	Evaluate the title again, and decide what it means to you now.
T: Theme	Write what you consider to be the theme, main idea, or lesson of the poem.

READING Lesson Plan → Predicting a Story through a Word Harvest

Organizing Topic Comprehending Narrative and Poetic Text

Related Standard(s) of Learning 6.4, 7.5, 8.5

Objective(s)

- The student will read and comprehend a short story.
- The student will clarify vocabulary.
- The student will predict.

Materials needed

- Student anthology
- Vocabulary list
- Pre-reading Word Harvest handout (see below)
- Sticky-notes

Lesson procedure

1. Choose a short story from the anthology, and choose approximately 15 words from the story, some of which are important to the theme or other story elements, and some which may be unfamiliar to the students.
2. Instruct the students to arrange the words on the list into the categories on the Word Harvest handout. Emphasize that many correct arrangements are possible.
3. Have the students use their categorized words to write a prediction of the story. Have students share their predictions.
4. Ask the students to find in the story the listed words and mark them with sticky-notes. Allow underlining or highlighting if the students are using a photocopy of the story.
5. Work with the students to clarify some or all of the unfamiliar words prior to reading: use collaboration, context, and, if necessary, dictionaries.
6. Have the students read the story with partners, in small groups, or individually. Alternatively, read part of the story aloud, if appropriate.
7. Discuss the story with the student and/or map it on the story map.

READING Lesson Plan → Comprehending Text with an About/Points Chart

Organizing Topic Comprehending Informational Text

Related Standard(s) of Learning 6.5, 7.6, 8.6

Objective(s)

- The student will read informational or persuasive text.
- The student will find the topic
- The student will find the main points.

Materials needed

- Several short informational or persuasive texts
- About/Point Charts in handout and transparency form
- Overhead projector

Lesson procedure

1. Display the About/Point chart, and distribute the shortest informational or persuasive text.
2. Instruct the students to read the text silently or with partners.
3. Ask the students to tell in one or two words what the text is about; write the topic on the transparency chart.
4. Ask the students to list the points the author makes; write these on the transparency chart.
5. Distribute About/Point Charts and another text to the students. Have the students read the text silently or with partners and fill in the chart.
6. Discuss the student responses, and write these on another transparency chart.

READING Lesson Plan → Understanding Text with an Anticipation Guide

Organizing Topic Comprehending Informational Text

Related Standard(s) of Learning 6.5, 7.6, 8.6

Objective(s)

- The student will read informational text.
- The student will predict.
- The student will modify opinions or biases.
- The student will express opinions.
- The student will paraphrase.

Materials needed

- An Anticipation Guide prepared by the teacher
- Highlighters and/or sticky-notes
- Informational text

Lesson procedure

1. Prepare an anticipation guide by reading the text carefully in advance of the lesson and identifying the major concepts. Write three to five general statements about these concepts that will activate student background knowledge and/or biases. Well-known quotations, idioms, and or clichés may work well.
2. Display and distribute the Anticipation Guide to students. Have the students respond to the guide, circling “Agree” or “Disagree” by each statement in the left-hand column.
3. Read the beginning of the text aloud, and then assign students to read the remainder individually or with partners.
4. When reading is complete, instruct students to mark their Anticipation Guide again in the right-hand column to reflect their confirmed or changed beliefs. Students should also highlight or mark with sticky-notes the passages in the text that support their beliefs.
5. Discuss the concept statements with the students, and have students support their responses based on the text.
6. As an extension, the students might write about one of the concept statements, using the text to support their beliefs.
7. This lesson might be repeated with fiction by focusing on themes.

Before	Concept Statements	After
Agree Disagree	“Neither a borrower nor a lender be.”	Agree Disagree
Agree Disagree	Taxes are a necessary part of a democratic society.	Agree Disagree
Agree Disagree	Everyone cheats on taxes.	Agree Disagree

READING Lesson Plan → Summarizing with Subheadings and Group Collaboration

Organizing Topic Comprehending Informational Text

Related Standard(s) of Learning 6.5, 7.6, 8.6

Objective(s)

- The student will read informational text.
- The student will summarize.

Materials needed

- Informational text with subheadings
- Group Summarizing Charts in handout and transparency form
- Overhead projector

Lesson procedure

1. Distribute an informational text with subheadings, and display the Group Summarizing Chart on the overhead. Write the text’s subheadings on the chart as the students identify and read them aloud.
2. Divide the class into the same number of groups as the subheadings, and assign each group to read and summarize the portion of text under one subheading.
3. Write each group’s text summary on the chart transparency for the whole class to see. Coach the groups in refining their summary, as necessary, pointing out the good and bad features. If appropriate, have the students copy all summaries on their own chart.
4. The procedure might be repeated with informational text that is lacking subheading by instructing the students to skim the text prior to reading so that subheading might be created and written on the transparencies.

Organizing Topic Comprehending Informational Text

Related Standard(s) of Learning 6.5, 7.6, 8.6

Objective(s)

- The student will read and reread informational text.
- The student will take notes.
- The student will paraphrase.
- The student will summarize.

Materials needed

- Informational text with subheadings
- Read-and-Reread Note-Taking Guide Chart (see next page)

Lesson procedure

1. Choose and distribute a challenging informational text with subheadings. Distribute the chart.
2. Have students read and consider the title and write it on the guide. Have them also write the author's name on the guide and activate any prior knowledge about him/her by means of a whole-class or small-group discussion. Have students identify the source of the text, write it on the guide, and activate any prior knowledge about its bias by means of a whole-class or small-group discussion. Have them note the bias, if any, on the chart
3. Have the students read the opening and closing paragraphs aloud. Have them paraphrase these two paragraphs on their guides.
4. Ask the students to skim the article for boldface type, italics, and subheadings and write these on the guide in the order they appear in the text. Clarify any unfamiliar vocabulary during the second reading, and have students write needed clarifications on their guides.
5. Have students skim the article by reading the topic sentence in each paragraph. Explain that usually the topic sentence comes first in the paragraph, but occasionally one needs to read carefully to find it. Have students record the topic sentence on their guides. This step might be accomplished with partners or individually.
6. Pause to discuss what has been learned thus far.
7. Have students read the entire article, writing any important information not already included on their guide.
8. Finally, have students summarize the article.

Comprehending Informational Text

Related Standard(s) of Learning 6.5, 7.6, 8.6

Objective(s)

- The student will read informational text.
- The student will ask questions.
- The student will answer questions.

Materials needed

- A textbook or informational article
- Sticky-notes

Lesson procedure

1. Instruct the students to read the first two paragraphs of the text silently and formulate questions based on the reading. Have the students write their questions on sticky-notes.
2. Model answering text-based questions by allowing the students to ask you their questions and answering the questions without consulting the text.
3. Then, instruct students to read the next several paragraphs in order to prepare to answer questions themselves.
4. Ask the students some literal and some inferential questions based on the reading. Have them answer without consulting the text, if possible, but if no one can answer, allow them to look back at the text. For answers to inferential questions, students should be able to support their inferences with ideas or statements from the text.
5. Instruct the students to read a few more paragraphs and prepare additional literal and inferential questions on sticky-notes.
6. Answer the students' questions without consulting the text, but if necessary, refer to ideas or statements in the text to support the answers to inferential questions.
7. Continue the process, with students and teacher alternating until the text is finished.
8. Pairs of students might use this procedure after the students are proficient in it.

READING Test Items from the Virginia Standards of Learning Assessment

Released reading test items can be accessed at <http://www.pen.k12.va.us/VDOE/Assessment/releasedtests.html>. Reviewing these assessment items and using them in the classroom will allow educators and students to become familiar with the type of questions being asked as well as the testing format.

Teachers should also review the electronic format with students to acquaint them with the tools and functionality of online testing. Released reading online testing can be accessed at http://etest.ncs.com/Customers/Virginia/pat_home.htm.
